

Nora Raymond | Text Transcript | CSAHS Award Recognition 2020

Hi, my name is Nora and I'm currently a fourth year Psychology student at the University of Guelph, and I was this year's recipient of the Carolyn Oke Langill Community Outreach Scholarship.

I would just like to express my gratitude towards Carolyn Langill for sponsoring this award. This scholarship is significant for me as it allows me to fully immerse myself in my academics and not have to worry about working part-time to help pay for school.

I'm currently a thesis student and working on a clinical project in Psychology with young children in the community of Guelph and so this really allows me time to dedicate more of my efforts towards that and not have to worry about financial stress.

I currently have aspirations of completing a clinical master's in Psychology, so this goes a long way in helping me get the marks and the requirements that I need to apply to those programs for next year so this is a large stepping stone in helping me achieve those goals. So, thank you.
